BY-LAWS ARE ADOPTED AS READ

Articles Set Forth Purpose of the Chamber of Commerce and Prescribe Duties of Officials.

ONLY FEW CHANGES ARE MADE

Carrying Forward of Work Now Rests With Directors and Standing Committees to be Named.

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last night the report of the by-laws committee was adopted as read. The original report was changed only slightly.

The organization work is now complete, with the exception of the formality of incorporation, and this function will be performed by the officers in the near future.

The carrying forward of the work of the Chamber now rests with the directors and the standing committees which will be appointed shortly. The duty of employing a secretary, which will be done in a short while, falls to the lot of the executive committee, subject to the approval of the board of directors.

The executive committee consists of Will M. Sparks, president; Pon Riggs, William G. Mulno, E. R. Casady and A. H. Schriete, vice-presidents, and Wilbur Stiers, treasurer.

The by-laws provide the secretary shall "receive such compensation as the executive committee may agree upon and shall serve the pleasure of the executive committee."

The statement of organization which gives the purposes and intentions of the Chamber of Commerce is as follows:

"We, the undersigned, citizens of the United States of America, and residents of the city of Rushville, Rush county, and the state of Indiana, desiring to form a corporation, pursuant to the provisions of the laws of the state of Indiana, do hereby certify:

"First, the corporate name of said corporation shall be Chamber of Commerce of Rush County, Indiana.

"Second, the object for which said corporation is formed is to foster the trade, commerce and civic betterment of the city of Rushville and county of Rush, to protect such trade from unjust and unlawful exaction, to reform abuses of trade, to produce uniformity and certainty in the customs and usages of trade; to settle differences between its members and to promote a more friendly intercourse between the various interests of the city of Rushville and Rush county, to increase the interests of the citizens of Rushville and Rush county in its development both in a commercial and in a civil way; to interest itself in any and all affairs that pertain to the welfare of the city of Rushville and Rush county.

"Third, that the said corporation shall have no capital stock.

"Fourth, that the term existence of said corporation is to be for twenty years.

"Fifth, that the number of directors, who shall manage the concerns or interests of said corporation shall be twenty-one; that the name of the city and county in which the principal officers are to be located is the city of Rushville in the county of Rush in the state of Indiana."

What the Chamber of Commerce shall depend largely on the board of directors, according to the by-laws which say the management of the concern's affairs "shall be vested in 21 elected directors, with full power to authorize and

ASK PETITIONS BE SIGNED

Drug Houses Seek to Stop Liquor Resolution in Congress.

Local drug store proprietors have received petitions from wholesale drug houses asking that they be circulated for signatures and then presented to Finly Gray, congressman from this district. The petitions pray that the congressman vote against a resolution pending in Congress that seeks to stop the importation, manufacture and sale of all alcoholic beverages in the United States. None of them have been circulated here yet.

LEGAL QUESTION BEING DISCUSSED

Length of Time Over Which Suspended Sentence in Police Court Extends Worries Heads Here.

LAWYERS ARE UNDECIDED

A legal question has grown out of the suspended sentence passed on P. A. Miller and James McCormick by Mayor Bebout, last Tuesday after they pleaded guilty to the charge of possession of liquor illegally. The question at once arose in the minds of many persons as to the time over which the suspended sentence extended.

It has been contended by many that the sentence does not hang over the men's heads after the thirty days has expired. Still others have asserted the suspended sentence would be in force during the term of Mayor Bebout, but this is pointed out to be a wrong contention.

The question was discussed by attorneys informally in court the other morning and several searched for some opinion or authority to settle the discussion, but were unable to find anything. Most attorneys, however, feel that the suspended sentence holds forever.

CARTHAGE IN FIX LIKE RUSHVILLE

Old City Hall is Condemned and Steps Are Taken to Get a New One Immediately.

IS HELD TO BE FIRE MENACE

Carthage, like Rushville, is in a terrible fix because it has no fit place for public gatherings. Carthage can even go Rushville, one better, however, because it has a town hall, even though it has been condemned.

A meeting of prominent citizens was held in Carthage this week at which ways and means were discussed to erect a new town hall. Committees were appointed and it is very likely something definite will be done in the immediate future.

The state fire marshal has notified J. A. Lineback at Carthage that the old town hall is unsafe and a fire menace. Mr. Lineback has been advised that the hall must be put in good condition in ninety days or else be torn down.

SUIT OVER BALKY MULES SETTLED

Span Taken Back by Defendants and Promissory Note Given to Plaintiffs—Ended Suddenly.

LOCAL CREAMERY TO BE SOLD

Judge Cleans up Criminal Docket, Leaving Very Few Cases—Embezzlement Charge Dismissed.

The suit over a span of mules brought by Riley McCarty and Jacob Myer against Joseph B. Hardin and Joseph E. Hardin, which started in the circuit court this morning was compromised shortly after noon. The plaintiffs demanded $325 alleging that they were defrauded in buying them. In the compromise the defendants agreed to take back the mules and turned over a note that was given in payment for them.

A jury was obtained and two witnesses were examined before the case was compromised. The suit was over a span of mules the plaintiffs purchased from the defendants. They executed a promissory note for $276 in payment for the mules. The transaction took place March 9, 1912. The note was due Dec. 25, 1913. McCarty and Myer alleged that the mules were sold to them to be sound and that when they tried to work them, the mules refused to work. For this reason the note was never paid after they demanded that it be turned back to them. The complaint states that the defendants misrepresented the mules and alleged fraud.

L. L. Allen was given judgment against Walter Peters for $184.08. He sued on an account, alleging that Peters owed him a grocery bill. Peters defaulted and Judge Megee found for Allen.

Judge Megee granted the petition of the receiver, in the case of Jacob Feudner against the Rushville Creamery Company this morning, asking that the sale of the property be ordered. The receiver is the Farmer's Trust company. The creamery will be sold in about three weeks. The real estate is to be sold for one-half cash and six months credit for the other half. The personal property is to be sold for cash.

Judge Megee made another cleaning of the criminal docket this morning and as a result there is only a few cases left. The criminal business since Judge Megee has been on the bench has been extremely light and even now there are not many important cases to be tried.

Two cases against Ollie Hinton for surety of peace were dismissed for want of prosecution. They were sent to the circuit court on transcripts from Squire Kratzer's court. They have been on the criminal docket in the circuit court for about three years. The prosecuting witness has moved from the county. A case against Albert Fouty for petit larceny was dismissed because a grand jury indictment was returned for the same offence. The case that was dismissed was also sent to the circuit court room from squire's court.

The case against Greely Ferguson for selling liquor without a license was also thrown out of court. It was sent to the circuit court from Mayor Black's court last October. Ferguson served a long term in jail for this charge even after the case had been taken to the circuit court. The embezzlement charge against Charles Anderson of Shelbyville was dismissed. The charge was filed by a contractor while Anderson was working in this city and while the case was dropped some time ago, it was not formally dismissed until today.

EFFORT TO GET A SITE FAILS

National Gate Company, Organization of Local Capitalists, May be Lost to Rushville.

OFFERS FROM OTHER PLACES

Pointed Out by Many That Chamber of Commerce Has Opportunity to Foster Home Industry.

Many persons are now pointing out that the Chamber of Commerce, as soon as standing committees are appointed and the organization is on the job, has a chance to prove its worth by getting back of the National Gate company, an organization of local capitalists which is having some difficulty in obtaining a site.

It is declared that the Chamber of Commerce's foremost intention is to foster home industry above all things. This opportunity, it is shown, presents itself at the very outset of the organization and ought to give the new project a chance to make good with the city and county.

The gate company is the outgrowth of the Peoples Gate company which began here in a small way under the guidance of J. N. Neal a few years ago and gradually expanded. Recently a number of local capitalists were taken into the organization and it was incorporated under the laws of Indiana.

With new capital the gate company immediately began to arrange to enlarge its capacity so as to increase the output. Negotiations for a site have been pending the last few months, but nothing has yet been accomplished. It is reported that all these negotiations have practically failed.

Most of the dealings were with the railroad companies entering Rushville. It was thought at one time that a site would be arranged for, but it has been announced that all negotiations are off.

It was stated during the period that it was practically considered definite a site would be obtained that the company would erect a good sized building and increase its force of men several fold.

Many are convinced that this organization of home capitalists will be lost to Rushville if the Chamber of Commerce does not lend its support to the institution. It is known that several offers have been made to the gate company, but since practically all of the stockholders are Rushville and Rush county men, they prefer to stay at home.

Although the terms of the offers have never been made public, it is definitely known that propositions have been made to the company by the Marion and Shelbyville commercial organizations. It is pointed out that the Chamber of Commerce has ample opportunity to do something here.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 27.—The police today are looking for a big black negro and a club five feet long. URNS STATE'S WITNESS

Roberts Appointee Testifies in Alleged Election Fraud Case.

(By United Press.)

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 27.—Dr. E. T. Zaring, member of the city health board and an appointee of Donn Roberts, turned state's evidence today in the case in which he and four others are indicted for alleged election frauds. He said he was offered $150 for his assistance, and, that with others, he helped mark 155 ballots for Roberts and others. These were ready to be voted. This occurred the day before the election.

A. P. WALKER IS EXAMINED TODAY

Judge Megee Questions Him so That Receiver May File Inventory—List Not Obtainable.

JULY SALE TOTALED $20,000

A. P. Walker was examined this afternoon before Judge Megee. The purpose of the examination was to see how much property he has in order that the receiver may file an inventory. In a receivership the inventory is usually filed the first thing, but a list of the property was not obtainable.

Mr. Walker was asked concerning the money received from his cattle sale last July. The books of the sale are in the hands of the receiver. The sale, according to Walker, amounted to about $20,000. Half of this was in notes and the other half was in cash. Mr. Walker stated that he did not hold any of the notes as they were sold to the Farmers Trust company. The money, he stated, was deposited in the various banks of this city and he was not certain but that some was placed in the Indiana National bank in Indianapolis.

Mr. Walker was represented in court by Will Henley of Indianapolis, while the receiver was represented by his attorneys, Donald Smith and John Kiplinger.

TO FORBID RAISE IN THE RATE LIMIT

Amendment Introduced in Senate Today Would Take Some Authority From Postmaster-General.

AS REGARDS PARCEL POST

(By United Press.)

Washington, Feb. 27.—The Senate this afternoon decided by a vote of 33 to 24 that the amendment taking from the postmaster-general the power to change the rates, weight and rules in the parcel post system was not in order and could not be considered at this time in connection with the postoffice appropriation bill.

An amendment forbidding the postmaster-general to increase the weight limit above fifty pounds was introduced by Senator Bulkhead.

SEIZES BOYS AS ARMY RECRUITS

General Huerta Today Takes 200 Youths From 12 to 14 Years of Age From Market Place.

TORN FROM THEIR MOTHERS

They Are "Herded" Into Box Cars and Will be "Shipped" Like Cattle to the Army.

(By United Press.)

Mexico City, Feb. 27.—A detachment of General Huerta's soldiers today suddenly surrounded the market place here and drafted two hundred farmer boys who were attending provision carts with their mothers. The "recruits" were drafted amidst the cries from the boys and their mothers.

Most of them were not over twelve and fourteen years old. They were taken to places of confinement to be kept under guard until Huerta can herd them into box cars and send them out to the army. This was said to be typical of the ways Huerta recruits his army.

The scene was an appalling one to onlookers not used to Huerta's ways.

One thousand troops were rushed today to the defense of Mananillo on the west coast.

STOP UNEMPLOYED PARADE

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Precautionary measures were taken today to prevent another parade of the unemployed to the city hall. Police were stationed at all points to break up parades leading to the Mayor Harrison home or to the city hall. The unemployed ask work and not charity.

Trade Follows

Value

Value does not necessarily mean low prices. It may mean superior or unusual service, or high quality of merchandise.

It is on this law the growing demand for advertised articles is based.

By experience many people have come to know that an article put out under a definite name and backed up by advertising is, in a certain sense, a standard of value.

It stands for something definite and tangible.

It is to be preferred to an article of "unknown ancestry."

This very same law is what is prompting so many national advertisers to use the newspapers in preference to any other medium.

They give a better standard of value or, in other words produce quicker and more definite sales for a given cost than would be produced through other channels.

Trade follows value as surely as night follows day.

For evidence—watch the ever-growing volume of advertising in this newspaper.

The Gem will show a three reel Victor feature "Rory of the Bogs" for tonight. J. Warren Kerrigan is featured. It is an Irish romance and tells a story of the 18th century and deals with the Fenian riots in Ireland. More than 300 people are used in the picture.

The Princess will show the sensational three reel picture "The Midst of the Jungle" for tonight. Kathryn Williams is featured. It is said to be a wonderful portrayal of beasts in a jungle, telling an interesting story of the wilds of Africa. The wild beasts are realistically shown and the picture is said to be a remarkable presentation.

The appearance of George Arliss and his company, under the management of The Liebler Company, in Louis N. Parker's famous comedy, "Disraeli," at English's Opera House, Indianapolis, during the week beginning Monday, March 24, promises to be one of the most important and interesting engagements of the season.

Benjamin Disraeli, a personality who in his day shone with dazzling brilliancy, is the subject of Mr. Parker's play. Long one of the most remarkable figures of Europe, as a statesman his political achievements secured him the premiership, while his literary gifts won him a place among English men of letters, and his art secured for him entree to the most brilliant circles of the old world. Thus Disraeli was a character whose qualities might well appeal to the dramatist. Mr. Parker shows us the immortal "Dizzy," as both his friends and his enemies called him, at the zenith of his career. Woven into the action of the piece is the diplomatic battle for the control of the Suez Canal, which Disraeli conducted and won for England single-handed. No one could be made to realize the importance of preventing the control of the canal from falling into unfriendly hands; the Bank of England refused to aid him in his project, and only by going to the Jews for money, and by astutely forestalling all moves made by his opponents, did he complete a task the fruits of which were soon recognized. All this in the play serves merely as a background for a love-story encouraged and fostered by Disraeli with the same cunning with which he bent political tools to serve his purpose. In general Disraeli tactics in furthering the wooing of the Lady Clarissa by Viscount Deeford, are much the same as those of Richelieu in regard to the Chevalier Mauprat and Julie in Lytton's famous play. Before the contemplated match is consummated, Disraeli makes the young aristocrat prove himself a man.

The production of "Disraeli" is said to be elaborate scenically, particularly the brilliant last act, which represents the Reception Hall in Downing Street, just before the presentation to the Queen. The costumes of the period—the early seventies, lend the play attractive pictorial qualities.

Mr. Arliss' company includes Violet Heming, Florence Arliss, Margaret Dale, Leila Repton, Lilla Campbell, Oscar Adye, Henry Carvell, Charles Harbury, Arthur Elldred, St. Clair Bayfield and others.

There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The management of English's Opera House announces that reservations for seats may be made by mail or telephone.

Mr. and Mrs. Schetgen will be here on a visit some time during the year. A Calgary newspaper says of the wedding:

A very quite wedding took place at seven o'clock this morning in St. Mary's Cathedral, when Miss Mary Isabel Brady, formerly of Kingston, Ont., and James Joseph Schetgen of the C. P. R. telegraph staff, were united in marriage by Rev. Doctor MacDonald.

The ceremony was witnessed by many friends of the young couple who were attended by the bride's cousin, Miss Katherine Corrigan and Leo Schetgen, a brother of the bridegroom. The bride wore her traveling suit of navy blue serge and blouse and hat of black velvet, trimmed with blue. Miss Corrigan wore a suit of Copenhagen blue broadcloth with black hat.

After the ceremony the guests adjourned to the residence of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hickey, Twenty-fifth Avenue west, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Schetgen left on the morning train for Baniff and other points west and on their return will reside at suite No. 7, College apartments.

A Chance at First

It looks as if the Chamber of Commerce would have a chance to prove its worth at the very outset. One of the first conceptions of work for the chamber was that it should always have a "weather eye" out for home industry that needed support, especially moral.

Here is the National Gate company, almost wholly local capital and ready to expand and grow, but it is hampered by the fact that it can not find a suitable location. There would never be a finer opportunity for the Chamber of Commerce to accomplish something definite and worthy than in this instance.

The National Gate company offers a lesson that should be taken home by every person who is interested in Rushville. We have long been asserting that we wanted more industries, and it is quite true that we do, but when we can get them that are backed by home capital rather than those which represent foreign capital, we should take them hastily before some wide-awake city hereabout comes forward and lands the plumb.

The National Gate company has been seeking a site for some time. The company wants to grow, but has not yet had the opportunity. Instead of finding a ready and willing spirit in Rushville to co-operate and lend all the moral support possible, the company has found, it is reported, a spirit of petty bickering and smallness that is poor advance to make to a concern that some day may become a very big institution. The Chamber of Commerce, if it is the success it should be, should give men in Rushville both in and out of business a new vision.

If the organization does that, it will have accomplished a lot. Some of us need to be able to see "in front of our noses," as the quaint expression so plainly expresses the sentiment.

We ought to be able to understand that the National Gate company although it is not now a Gary steel mill or National Cash Register plant, may some day be a concern of which Rushville, including those who are loathe ever to give compliment, can well be proud. If the Chamber of Commerce, by its organization and its methods, establish a sentiment favorable to home industry above all things, it will live and thrive and make Rushville a better place.

The older men of Rushville tell us of the younger generation how many men in their youth were turned away from Rushville because there was no ambition here to do anything and because of the lack of foresight. It is said of a certain man who once wanted to locate here and was not encouraged at all, and who has since become a very wealthy gentleman and a good asset to any town, stated in a speech a few years ago that he really liked Rushville best of any city he ever saw and that he attempted to locate here once. He broached the subject with Rushville citizens and they finally agreed to give him all the fresh air and sunshine he could use.

So it has been too often in Rushville. We want a new public spirit, and through the Chamber of Commerce we can best get it. Let's start in with the National Gate company, and if we can't do nothing else, at least say an encouraging word to its organizers. Let's show them that we are for them.

The company has been negotiating with several of the railroads in regard to a site, but it seems that about all plans have gone awry and that the negotiations will fail. It is up to us, the people of Rushville, acting through the Chamber of Commerce, to show this Rushville company that we want them to stay here.

Now let's give them the friendly slap on the back, a kindly smile and all the good will we can. The rest will come.

We have lots of respect for the prediction that the little Ground Hog made about this weather. The sample has been good and if you are riding around without the protection of a storm buggy now is the time to get busy and buy one, then you will wonder why you didn't do it long ago. COMPUTING NEW TAX EXPLAINED

If You Are so Unfortunate as to be a Bachelor, it Costs You Above the $3,000 Mark.

IF MARRIED, $4,000 IS THE LIMIT

Income Tax Returns for Last Year Must be Made to Internal Revenue Collector by March 1

[Special to the Daily Republican.] Washington, Feb. 27—If a farmer is so fortunate as to have a net income of over $3,000 a year in case he is a bachelor, or $4,000 if married, he is subject to the income tax, and under the law each individual must make return to the Internal Revenue collector of his district on or before the first day of March if he has a net income of $3,000 or over ($2,500 for the ten months of 1913). While the interest of most farmers in this subject is purely academic, the Department of Agriculture has received inquiries indicating that some wish to know just what is required of them under the new law.

The income tax law of October 3, 1913, places a tax of 1% upon all net incomes of over $3,000, with an additional tax on incomes of $20,000 or more. The first question arising in the minds of most people is what constitutes a net income. For a man receiving a regular salary, or a business man with a good system of book-keeping, it is easy to determine whether or not his income is taxable. But for the farmer who receives no stated income, and who often fails to keep an accurate account of receipts and expenditures, it is more difficult to calculate his net income.

In order that farmers may be posted on the income tax as it may concern them, the following information has been furnished by the Internal Revenue Bureau of the Treasury Department. In general, an income consists of amounts derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service, paid in any form; also from professions, business, sales or dealings in property, or from rents, interest on bonds or mortgages, dividends on stocks, or other income from investments. These items constitute gross income, from which there should be deducted the expenses of carrying on the business; interest paid on indebtedness; worthless debts charged off; losses by fire, storm or shipwreck, not covered by insurance; exhaustion, wear and tear of property, and any income upon which the income tax has already been deducted at the source, as, for instance, dividends on the stock of a corporation which has already paid the tax on its earnings.

The provisions regarding net incomes of $3,000 apply only to unmarried persons, or to married persons not living with wife or husband. A husband and wife living together are entitled to an exemption of $4,000 on their aggregate income. This means that in case the wife has a separate income, if this added to the husband's income amounts to $4,000 the total is subject to the tax; or, if the wife has no separate income, the husband's income is taxable only in case it reaches $4,000. But a return must be made if the aggregate income of both is $2,500 for the year 1913. The joint exemption, however, would be $3,333.33.

In arriving at his net income the farmer should start with his gross income. This would consist of any items of the kind above enumerated, and especially all receipts from the sale of products of every description from the farm. This would include all money received for produce and animals sold, and for the wool and hides of animals slaughtered, if the wool and hides are sold; but he may deduct from these items the amounts actually paid as purchase money for the animals sold or slaughtered during the year. When the animals raised by the owner are sold or slaughtered, however, their value should not be deducted.

From the gross income there should be deducted amounts of money actually paid as expenses for operating the farm and producing the farm products, live stock, etc. This would include hired farm labor, farm supplies purchased that are necessary to carry on the business and not an investment that represents principal, etc. Expenses for repairs on farm property may be deducted, provided the amount deducted does not exceed the amount spent for such repairs during the year for which the return is made. The cost of replacing tools or machinery may also be deducted to the extent that the cost of the new articles does not exceed the value of the old. No deduction may be made for the cost of additional farm machinery, but credit may be allowed for the annual depreciation in the value of such machinery. For example, if a machine cost $100 and is regarded as good for ten years of service, the annual depreciation would be 10%, and a deduction of $10 dollars each year could be made on this account, as part of the expense of operating the farm.

The expense of supporting the family, however, can not be deducted from the gross income. Among items for which credit is not allowed are expense for medical attendance, life insurance, insurance on dwelling, store accounts, family supplies, wages of domestic servants, and cost of board, room or house rent for family or personal use. In case an individual owns his residence he cannot deduct the estimated value of his rent. But a tenant operating a rented farm as proprietor may deduct the rent of the farm as a part of the expense of his business. Farmers are not required to include in their income the produce taken from the farm and consumed by the family. Only produce sold off the farm is to be included. A farmer is not entitled to a deduction for his own labor, or for expense of feeding live stock. He may, however, deduct such items as cost of fertilizer and other supplies and materials which are used up in the course of his operations.

The law provides that the year 1913 the tax shall be computed only on the net income for the ten months from March 1st to December 31st, and that returns shall be made on the basis of five-sixths of the year. Therefore, if the net income for the last ten months of 1913 amounts to $2,500 or more a return on form 1040 is required. For the ten months of 1913 every single person is allowed $2,500 exemption and in the case of husband and wife, living together $3,333.33 exemption. In computing the net income for this period deductions should be made for only five-sixths of the amounts properly allowable for the whole year. Returns for 1913 must be made by March 1st, 1914.

Blanks for making returns for the income tax may be obtained from the collectors of internal revenue throughout the country, or from the Bureau of Internal Revenue of the Treasury Department at Washington, D. C. In case of failure on the part of any one who is subject to the tax to file the return by the first of March, the law fixes a penalty of 5% of the amount of the tax assessed and $10 to $1,000 fine. In case of false or fraudulent return there is a penalty of 100% and $20 to $2,000 fine and one year's imprisonment or both.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue is preparing regulations which may be obtained by interested persons on application to collector of Internal Revenue for the applicant's district.

CHAPTER XI.

Melodrama In the Snow.

MR. MAX finished, and again from below came the sound of voices raised in anger.

"An interesting story, Mr. Max," commented Professor Bolton. "I shall treasure it."

"Told with a remarkable feeling for detail," added Mr. Magee. "In fact, it seems to me that only one of the two participants in it could remember all the fine points so well. Mr. Max, you don't exactly look like Mark Denen to me, therefore—if you will pardon the liberty!"

"I get you," replied Max sadly. "The same old story. Suspicion—suspicion everywhere. It does a lot of harm, believe me. I wouldn't!"

He jumped from his chair and disappeared, for the voice of Cargan had hailed him from below. Mr. Magee and the professor with one accord followed. Hiding in the friendly shadows of the landing once again, they heard the loud tones of the mayor's booming voice and the softer tones of Bland's.

"How about this?" bellowed the mayor. "Hayden's squealed. Phones to Bland—not to me. Whines about the courts—I don't know what rot. He's squealed. He didn't phone the combination."

"The rat!" screamed Mr. Max. "By the Lord Harry," said the mayor. "I'll have it open, anyhow! I've earned what's in there fair and square. I'm going to have it, Max."

"See here, Cargan!" put in Mr. Bland. "Keep out of the way, you," cried Cargan. "And put away that popgun before you get hurt. I'm going to have what's mine by justice. That safe comes open tonight. Max, get your satchel!"

Mr. Magee and the professor turned and ascended to the second floor. In front of No. 7 they paused and looked into each other's eyes. Professor Bolton shrugged his shoulders.

"I'm going to bed," he said, "and I advise you to do the same."

"Yes," replied Mr. Magee, but had no idea what he had said.

He entered No. 7 and paused in amazement. Outside one of his windows Miss Norton stood, rapping on the glass for him to open. When he stood facing her at last, the window no longer between, he saw that her face was very pale and that her chin trembled as it had in the station.

"What is it?" cried Magee.

"I must come in," she answered. "Listen! You said you wanted to help me. You can do so now. I'll explain everything later. That is all I need tell you just at present. Downstairs in the safe there's a package containing $200,000—do you hear, $200,000. I must have that package. Don't ask me why. I came here to get it. I must have it. The combination was to have been phoned to Cargan at 8 o'clock. I was hiding outside the window. Something went wrong—they didn't phone it. He's going to open the safe by force. I heard him say so. I couldn't wait to hear more. I saw him."

"Who?" asked Mr. Magee.

"I don't know—a tall black figure—hiding outside a window like myself. The man with one of the other keys, I suppose. The man Mr. Bland heard walking about tonight. I saw him, and I was terribly frightened."

"You trust me?" asked the girl, with a little catch in her voice. "Without knowing who I am or why I must have the money—you'll get it for me?"

"Some people," said Mr. Magee. "meet all their long lives at pink teas and never know one another, while others just smile at each other across a station waiting room—that's enough."

"I'm so glad," whispered the girl. "I never dreamed I'd meet any one like you—up here. Please, oh, please be very careful. Neither Cargan nor Max is armed. Bland is. I should never forgive myself if you were hurt. But you won't be, will you?"

"I may catch cold," laughed Mr. Magee; "otherwise I'll be perfectly safe." He went into the room and put on a gay plaid cap. "Makes me look like Sherlock Holmes," he smiled at the girl framed in the window. When he turned to his door to lock it, he discovered that the key was gone and that it had been locked on the outside. "Oh, very well," he said flippantly. He buttoned his coat to the chin, blew out the candles in No. 7 and joined the girl on the balcony.

"Go to your room," he said gently. "Your worries are over. I'll bring you the golden fleece inside an hour."

"Be careful," she whispered. "Be very careful, Mr.—Billy."

The justly celebrated moon that in summer months shed so much glamor on the romances of Baldpate inn was nowhere in evidence as Mr. Magee crept along the ground close to the veranda. The snow sifted down upon him out of the blackness above. Three feet ahead the world seemed to end.

"A corking night," he muttered humorously, "for my debut in the hold-up business."

He swung up over the rail on to the veranda and walked softly along it until he came to a window opening into the office. Cautiously he peered in. The vast, lonely room was lighted by a single candle. At the foot of the broad stair he could discern a great bulk seated on the lowest step, which he correctly took to be the mayor of Reuton. Back of the desk, on which stood the candle, Mr. Max's head and shoulders were visible. He was working industriously in the immediate vicinity of the safe door. Occasionally he consulted the small traveling bag that stood on the desk. Many other professions had claimed Mr. Max before his advent into Reuton politics. Mr. Bland was nowhere in sight.

"Keep out of the way, you," cried Cargan.

No word was spoken in the office. Minutes passed. The bulk at the foot of the stairs surged restlessly.

Suddenly Mr. Max ran out into the center of the office. Almost on the instant there was a white puff of smoke and a roar. The inn seemed about to roll down the mountain after all those years of sticking tight. The mayor looked apprehensively up the stair behind him. Mr. Max ran to the open safe door and came back before the desk with a package in his hand. After examining it hastily, Mr. Cargan placed the loot in his pocket. The greedy eyes of Max followed it for a second; then he ran over and gathered up his tools. Now they were ready to depart. The mayor lifted the candle from the desk. Its light fell on a big chair by the fire, and Mr. Magee saw in that chair the figure of Mr. Bland, bound and gagged.

Mr. Cargan and his companion raised and appeared to address triumphant and jesting comment in Mr. Bland's direction. Then they buttoned their coats and, holding aloft the candle, disappeared through the dining room door.

Now Magee knew the moment had come to act. Max he could quickly dispose of he felt; Cargan would require time and attention.

He hurried round to the front door of the inn and, taking the big key from his pocket, unlocked it as a means of retreat where the men he was about to attack could not follow.

He heard Cargan and Max on the veranda just above his head. They were speaking of trains to Reuton. In great good humor, evidently, they started down the steps. Mr. Magee crouched, resolved that he would spring the moment they reached the ground. They were on the last step—now!

Suddenly from the other side of the steps a black figure rose, a fist shot out and Mr. Max went spinning like a whirling dervish down the snowy path to land in a heap five feet away. The next instant the mayor of Reuton and the black figure were locked in terrific conflict.

For fifteen seconds, muttering, slipping, grappling, the two figures waited grotesquely about in the falling snow. Then the mayor's feet slid from under him on the treacherous white carpet, and the two went down together. As Mr. Magee swooped down upon them he saw the hand of the stranger find the mayor's pocket and draw from it the package that had been placed there in the office a few moments before.

Before that gentleman realized what had happened Magee had wrenched the package from his hand, thrown him back on the prostrate form of the highest official of Reuton and fled up the steps. Quickly the stranger regained his feet and started in pursuit, but he arrived at the great front door of Baldpate inn just in time to hear the lock click inside.

Safe for a moment behind a locked door, Mr. Magee paused to get his breath. The glory of battle filled his soul. It was not until long afterward that he realized the battle had been a mere scuffle in the dark.

With no thought for Mr. Bland, bound in his uneasy chair, Mr. Magee hurried up the broad staircase of Baldpate. Now came the most gorgeous scene of all—a fair haired lady; a knight she had sent forth to battle; the knight returned. "You asked me to bring you this, my lady." Business of surprise and joy on the lady's part.

business also perhaps of adoration for the knight.

At the right of the stairs lay 17 and the lady, at the left a supposedly uninhabited land. As Mr. Magee reached the second floor, blithely picturing the scene in which he was to play so satisfactory a part, he paused, for halfway down the corridor to the left an open door threw a faint light into the hall, and in that light stood a woman he had never seen before. In this order came Mr. Magee's impressions of her—fur coated, tall, dark, handsome, with the haughty manner of one engaging a chauffeur.

"I beg your pardon," she said, "but are you by any chance Mr. Magee?"

The knight leaned weakly against the wall and tried to think.

"I—I am," he managed to say.

"I'm so glad I've found you," replied the girl. It seemed to the dazed Magee that her dark eyes were not overly happy. "I cannot ask you in, I'm afraid. I do not know the custom on such an occasion. Does anybody? I am alone with my maid. Hal Bentley, when I wrote to him for a key to this place, told me of your being here and said that I was to put myself under your protection."

"Delighted, I'm sure," he murmured. "I shall not try to impose on you," she went on. "The whole affair is so unusual as to be almost absurd. I have come here to get something—and I haven't the least idea how to proceed. I came because I must have it—so much depends on it."

Prophetically Mr. Magee clutched in his pocket the package for which he had done battle.

"I may be too late," The girl's eyes grew wide. "That would be terribly unfortunate. I do not wish you to be injured serving me!" She lowered her voice. "But if there is any way in which you can help me—in this difficulty—I can never be grateful enough. Downstairs in the safe there is, I believe, a package containing a large sum of money."

Mr. Magee's hand closed convulsively in his pocket.

"If there is any way possible," said the girl, "I must obtain that package. I give you my word I have as much right to it as any one who will appear at the inn. The honor and happiness of one who is very dear to me are involved."

With the eyes of a man in a dream Mr. Magee looked into the face of the latest comer to Baldpate.

"Hal Bentley is an old friend and a bully chap," he said. "It will be a great pleasure to serve a friend of his." He paused, congratulating himself that these were words, idle words. "When did you arrive, may I ask?"

"I believe you were having dinner when I came," she answered. "Mr. Bentley gave me a key to the kitchen door, and we found a back stairway. There seemed to be a company below—I wanted to see only you."

"I repeat," said Mr. Magee, "I shall be happy to help you if I can." His word to another lady, he reflected, was binding. "I suggest that there is no harm in waiting until morning."

"But—I am afraid it was tonight"—she began.

"I understand," Magee replied. "The plans went wrong. You may safely let your worries rest until tomorrow."

"You are very kind," she said. "I hardly expected to be here the night through. It is rather cold, but I am sure we have rugs and coats enough."

Mr. Magee's duty was clear. "I'll build you a fire," he announced. The girl seemed distressed at the thought.

"No, I couldn't let you," she said. "I am sure it isn't necessary. I will say good night now. I am Myra Thornhill of Reuton. Until tomorrow." She went in and closed the door.

Mr. Magee sat limply down on the cold stair. All the glory was gone from the scene he had pictured a moment ago. He had the money, yes, the money procured in valiant battle, but at the moment he bore the prize to his lady another appeared from the dark to claim it. What should he do? Mr. Magee unlocked the door of No. 7 and entered. Lighting his candles and prodding the fire, he composed a note to the waiting girl in 17:

"Everything all right. Sleep peacefully. I am on the job. Will see you tomorrow. Mr.—Billy."

Magee Wrenched the Package From His Hand.

Slipping this message under her door, the ex-knight hurried away to avoid an interview and sat down in his chair before the fire.

"I must think," he muttered. "I must get this thing straight."

For an hour he pondered, thrashing out as best he could this mysterious game in which he played a leading part unequipped with a book of rules.

"Tomorrow is another day," he reflected. "I'll solve this whole thing then. They can't go on playing with me. I've got the ball."

He took the package from his pocket. Its seals had already been broken. Untying the strings, he began carefully to unwrap the paper, the thick yellow banking manila and then the oiled inner wrapping. So finally he opened up the solid mass of—what? He looked closer. Crisp, beautiful $1,000 bills. Whew! He had never seen a bill of this size before. And here were 200 of them.

He wrapped the package up once more and prepared for bed. Just as he was about to retire he remembered Mr. Bland, bound and gagged below. He went into the hall with the idea of releasing the unlucky haberdasher, but from the office rose the voices of the mayor, Max and Bland himself. Peace evidently had been declared between them. Mr. Magee returned to No. 7, locked all the windows, placed the much sought package beneath his pillow and after a half hour of puzzling and tossing fell asleep.

Value of Rheuma From the Court

Judge Barhorst Was Relieved of Rheumatism After Doctors Failed.

If you have tried many other remedies and doctors' treatments for Rheumatism and found they failed, do not be skeptical about trying RHEUMA. Read the testimony of Judge John Barhorst of Fort Laramie, O.:

"After treatment by three doctors without result, I have been cured of a very bad case of Rheumatism by using two bottles of RHEUMA. It is now two years since I used the remedy, and I am still as well as ever. Previously, I was a cripple, walking with crutches."

Such testimony should be convincing. 50 cents of F. B. Johnson & Co.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

are, we honestly believe, the best remedy made for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all other Stomach Ills

We Know They're Good Delays Are Dangerous You Risk No Money

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, in addition to other ingredients, contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two great digestive aids used by the entire medical profession. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check the heartburn and distress, stimulate a healthy secretion of the gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich red blood, and thereby into flesh, bone and muscle. They relieve stomach distress promptly, and, used regularly for a short time, tend to restore the stomach to a comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They aid greatly to promote regular bowel action.

Don't neglect indigestion, for it frequently leads to all sorts of ills and complications. The pain and discomfort is not the most unfortunate part. The fact that when the stomach is not acting right, the material needed to repair the wastes that are constantly taking place in the body is not being given to the blood either in the proper condition or fast enough is far more serious. Nothing will cause more trouble than an unhealthy stomach. The blues, debility, lack of strength and energy, constipation, biliousness, headaches and scores of other serious ailments result from the failure of the stomach to properly do its work.

Our willingness to have you use Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets entirely at our risk proves our faith in them. We always sell them this way, and it is because we know that they have greatly benefited scores of sufferers to whom we have sold them. There's no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. You needn't sign anything. Your word is enough for us. We know that when they help you you will consider it money well spent even if they had cost you ten times as much. If they don't help you, the money you paid for them is yours, and we want you to have it.

STATE CONTEST IS ON TONIGHT

Indiana College Students Swarm Into Indianapolis For Annual Oratorical—Much Rivalry.

DEPAUW STRONG CONTENDER

Miss Alma Madden is Only Woman in Contest Being Representative of Earlham College.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 27.—With the representatives of seven of the secondary colleges swarming into town today for the intercollegiate oratorical contest, Indianapolis assumed its usual air of tolerance for the enthusiasm of youth, and smiled at the banners and college yells. This is an annual affair here and the city is rather used to it. It views with the Indiana-Purdue game in spirit and in the numbers of college men and women it brings to town.

Wabash and Earlham Colleges had the biggest representation this afternoon, due to the basket ball game between their teams, which was to be played at the Y. M. C. A. About the association building were gathered all the rooters of those two schools and many old grades who turned out to help their teams along. The dope probably favored Wabash, for the Little Giants already had defeated the Quakers 17 to 10 in a game a week ago. The Earlhamites, however, believed their men had overcome a good deal of the stage fright that cropped them in the other game, and would not concede victory to Wabash.

DePauw University, because of its many victories in Oratory, was considered the strongest bidder for tonight's honors.

Earlham was considered strong, for those two schools have been the bitterest rivals in the state in oratory. Earlham will again be represented by a girl, Miss Alma Madden. Miss Janet Fenimore, who once won state honors in oratory, was an Earlham student.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN

Who Are "Just Ready to Drop."

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, you need help.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicines I ever took."

If the careworn, run-down women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderful, strength creator and body-builder, and we sell it under a guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. F. B. Johnson & Co. Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

If this Hen Could Talk

She would tell you how to get more eggs in winter.

But she can't. So you have to take the advice of successful poultrymen. They all agree that the only way to get eggs in winter is by feeding a meat ration along with grain feed.

And they agree that the meat ration should be high in protein, low in fat and fibre and clean and sweet.

Darling's Meat Crisps

meets these requirements in every particular. It contains 50 per cent more protein than common meat scraps.

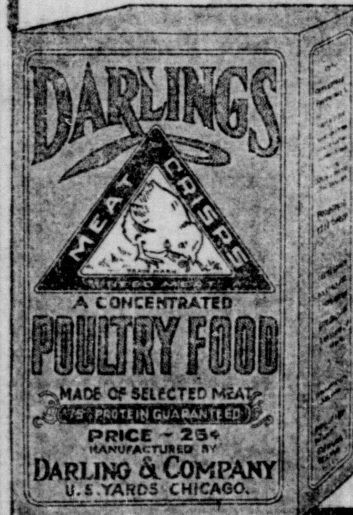

Get a twenty-five cent package of Darling's Meat Crisps today, mix a little with your regular feed according to directions on package, and the hens that are not laying will soon begin, while those that are laying will lay more regularly. Remember that Darling's Meat Crisps is a concentrated food and requires less to make a balanced ration.

WILL NOT TURN OVER CORPSE

(By United Press.) Washington, Feb. 27.—General Villa consented today to allow an American surgeon to accompany Mrs. W. S. Benton to Chihuahua to view the body of her husband. A message from the United States consul stated that Villa still refused to turn the body over to the American government and will not permit an autopsy. The body has been buried twelve days and the officers doubt whether an inspection will disclose much.

This act of Villa's materially cleared the air today. Secretary Bryan was more hopeful when he attended the cabinet meeting.

ASKS $20,950 IN 2 LAW SUITS

Jefferson C. Davis, Farmer of Near Clarksburg, Asks Accounting From Partner, J. T. Meek.

LOCAL ATTORNEYS BRING SUIT

In Second Action he Charges Slander and Demands $10,000 in Damages—Former Sheriff.

Jefferson C. Davis, a well known farmer of near Clarksburg, filed two suits yesterday in the Decatur circuit court through his attorneys, Watson, Titsworth & Green of this city and Tremain and Turner of Greensburg, against John Tom Meek, a capitalist of Greensburg, demanding a total of $20,950. The men were formerly partners in business.

The first suit is for an accounting. In this one he demands $10,950. The complaint avers that on May 5, 1906 the two men formed a partnership to buy and sell land and live stock. It was agreed, according to the complaint, that Davis was to do the buying and Meek was to furnish the money. He states that he bought much stock but does not believe he received his share of the profits.

The other is for slander and the demand is $10,000. The plaintiff alleges that Meek made a slanderous remark about him in March 1913. Both parties in the suits are well known. Mr. Davis was sheriff of Decatur county at one time.

The complaint sets forth that Mr. Meek in the presence of William E. Dorsey said to wit, meaning the plaintiff, forged his name to those checks and receipts on the "Croddey notes," meaning that the plaintiff had forged the defendant's name to certain checks and receipts theretofore giving for the payments on certain notes held by one Croddey, a resident of Franklin county, this state and meaning then and there to impute the plaintiff had unlawfully and feloniously forged his (Meek's) name.

BY-LAWS ARE ADOPTED AS READ

Articles Set Forth Purpose of the Chamber of Commerce and Prescribe Duties of Officials.

ONLY FEW CHANGES ARE MADE

Carrying Forward of Work Now Rests With Directors and Standing Committees to be Named.

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last night the report of the by-laws committee was adopted as read. The original report was changed only slightly.

The organization work is now complete, with the exception of the formality of incorporation, and this function will be performed by the officers in the near future.

The carrying forward of the work of the Chamber now rests with the directors and the standing committees which will be appointed shortly. The duty of employing a secretary, which will be done in a short while, falls to the lot of the executive committee, subject to the approval of the board of directors.

The executive committee consists of Will M. Sparks, president; Fon Riggs, William G. Mulao, E. R. Casady and A. H. Schlichte, vice-presidents, and Wilbur Stiers, treasurer. The by-laws provide the secretary shall "receive such compensation as the executive committee may agree upon and shall serve the pleasure of the executive committee."

The statement of organization which gives the purposes and intentions of the Chamber of Commerce is as follows:

"We, the undersigned, citizens of the United States of America, and residents of the city of Rushville, Rush county, and the state of Indiana, desiring to form a corporation, pursuant to the provisions of the laws of the state of Indiana, do hereby certify:

"First, the corporate name of said corporation shall be Chamber of Commerce of Rush County, Indiana.

"Second, the object for which said corporation is formed is to foster the trade, commerce and civic betterment of the city of Rushville and county of Rush, to protect such trade from unjust and unlawful exaction, to reform abuses of trade, to produce uniformity and certainty in the customs and usages of trade; to settle differences between its members and to promote a more friendly intercourse between the various interests of the city of Rushville and Rush county, to increase the interests of the citizens of Rushville and Rush county in its development both in a commercial and in a civil way; to interest itself in any and all affairs that pertain to the welfare of the city of Rushville and Rush county.

"Third, that the said corporation shall have no capital stock.

"Fourth, that the term existence of said corporation is to be for twenty years.

"Fifth, that the number of directors, who shall manage the concerns or interests of said corporation shall be twenty-one; that the name of the city and county in which the principal officers are to be located is the city of Rushville in the county of Rush in the state of Indiana."

What the Chamber of Commerce shall be depends largely on the board of directors, according to the by-laws which say the management of the concern's affairs "shall be vested in 21 elected directors, with full power to authorize and

Drug Houses Seek to Stop Liquor Resolution in Congress.

Local drug store proprietors have received petitions from wholesale drug houses asking that they be circulated for signatures and then presented to Finly Gray, congressman from this district. None of them have been circulated here yet.

LEGAL QUESTION BEING DISCUSSED

Length of Time Over Which Suspended Sentence in Police Court Extends Worries Heads Here.

LAWYERS ARE UNDECIDED

A legal question has grown out of the suspended sentence passed on P. A. Miller and James McCormie by Mayor Bebout last Tuesday after they pleaded guilty to the charge of possession of liquor illegally. The question at once arose in the minds of many persons as to the time over which the suspended sentence extended.

It has been contended by many that the sentence does not hang over the men's heads after the thirty days has expired. Still others have asserted the suspended sentence would be in force during the term of Mayor Bebout, but this is pointed out to be a wrong contention.

The question was discussed by attorneys informally in court the other morning and several searched for some opinion or authority to settle the discussion, but were unable to find anything. Most attorneys, however, feel that the suspended sentence holds forever.

CARTHAGE IN FIX LIKE RUSHVILLE

Old City Hall is Condemned and Steps Are Taken to Get a New One Immediately.

IS HELD TO BE FIRE MENACE

Carthage, like Rushville, is in a terrible fix because it has no fit place for public gatherings. Carthage can even go Rushville, one better, however, because it has a town hall, even though it has been condemned.

A meeting of prominent citizens was held in Carthage this week at which ways and means were discussed to erect a new town hall. Committees were appointed and it is very likely something definite will be done in the immediate future.

The state fire marshal has notified J. A. Lineback at Carthage that the old town hall is unsafe and a fire menace. Mr. Lineback has been advised that the hall must be put in good condition in ninety days or else be torn down.

SUIT OVER BALKY MULES SETTLED

Span Taken Back by Defendants and Promissory Note Given to Plaintiffs—Ended Suddenly.

LOCAL CREAMERY TO BE SOLD

Judge Cleans up Criminal Docket, Leaving Very Few Cases—Embezzlement Charge Dismissed.

The suit over a span of mules brought by Riley McCarty and Jacob Myer against Joseph B. Hardin and Joseph E. Hardin, which started in the circuit court this morning was compromised shortly afternoon. The plaintiffs demanded $325 alleging that they were defrauded in buying them. In the compromise the defendants agreed to take back the mules and turned over a note that was given in payment for them.

A jury was obtained and two witnesses were examined before the case was compromised. The suit was over a span of mules the plaintiffs purchased from the defendants. They executed a promissory note for $276 in payment for the mules. The transaction took place March 9, 1912. The note was due Dec. 25, 1913. McCarty and Myer alleged that the mules were sold to them to be sound and that when they tried to work them, the mules refused to work. For this reason the note was never paid after they demanded that it be turned back to them. The complaint states that the defendants misrepresented the mules and alleged fraud.

L. L. Allen was given judgment against Walter Peters for $184.08. He sued on an account, alleging that Peters owed him a grocery bill. Peters defaulted and Judge Megee found for Allen.

Judge Megee granted the petition of the receiver, in the case of Jacob Feudner against the Rushville Creamery Company this morning, asking that the sale of the property be ordered. The receiver is the Farmer's Trust company. The creamery will be sold in about three weeks. The real estate is to be sold for one-half cash and six months credit for the other half. The personal property is to be sold for cash.

Judge Megee made another cleaning of the criminal docket this morning and as a result there is only a few cases left. The criminal business since Judge Megee has been on the bench has been extremely light and even now there are not many important cases to be tried.

Two cases against Ollie Hinton for surety of peace were dismissed for want of prosecution. They were sent to the circuit court on transcripts from Squire Kratzer's court. They have been on the criminal docket in the circuit court for about three years. The prosecuting witness has moved from the county. A case against Albert Fouty for petit larceny was dismissed because a grand jury indictment was returned for the same offence. The case that was dismissed was also sent to the circuit court room from squire's court.

The case against Greely Ferguson for selling liquor without a license was also thrown out of court. It was sent to the circuit court from Mayor Black's court last October. Ferguson served a long term in jail for this charge even after the case had been taken to the circuit court. The embezzlement charge against Charles Anderson of Shelbyville was dismissed. The charge was filed by a contractor while Anderson was working in this city and while the case was dropped some time ago, it was not formally dismissed until today.

EFFORT TO GET A SITE FAILS

National Gate Company, Organization of Local Capitalists, May be Lost to Rushville.

OFFERS FROM OTHER PLACES

Pointed Out by Many That Chamber of Commerce Has Opportunity to Foster Home Industry.

Many persons are now pointing out that the Chamber of Commerce, as soon as standing committees are appointed and the organization is on the job, has a chance to prove its worth by getting back of the National Gate company, an organization of local capitalists which is having some difficulty in obtaining a site.

It is declared that the Chamber of Commerce's foremost intention is to foster home industry above all things. This opportunity, it is shown, presents itself at the very outset of the organization and ought to give the new project a chance to make good with the city and county.

The gate company is the outgrowth of the Peoples Gate company which began here in a small way under the guidance of J. N. Neal a few years ago and gradually expanded. Recently a number of local capitalists were taken into the organization and it was incorporated under the laws of Indiana.

With new capital the gate company immediately began to arrange to enlarge its capacity so as to increase the output. Negotiations for a site have been pending the last few months, but nothing has yet been accomplished. It is reported that all these negotiations have practically failed.

Most of the dealings were with the railroad companies entering Rushville. It was thought at one time that a site would be arranged for, but it has been announced that all negotiations are off.

It was stated during the period that it was practically considered definite a site would be obtained that the company would erect a good sized building and increase its force of men several fold.

Many are convinced that this organization of home capitalists will be lost to Rushville if the Chamber of Commerce does not lend its support to the institution. It is known that several offers have been made to the gate company, but since practically all of the stockholders are Rushville and Rush county men, they prefer to stay at home.

Although the terms of the offers have never been made public, it is definitely known that propositions have been made to the company by the Marion and Shelbyville commercial organizations. It is pointed out that the Chamber of Commerce has ample opportunity to do something here.

(By United Press.)

A. P. WALKER IS EXAMINED TODAY

Judge Megee Questions Him so That Receiver May File Inventory—List Not Obtainable.

JULY SALE TOTALED $20,000

A. P. Walker was examined this afternoon before Judge Megee. The purpose of the examination was to see how much property he has in order that the receiver may file an inventory. In a receivership the inventory is usually filed the first thing, but a list of the property was not obtainable.

Mr. Walker was asked concerning the money received from his cattle sale last July. The books of the sale are in the hands of the receiver. The sale, according to Walker, amounted to about $20,000. Half of this was in notes and the other half was in cash. Mr. Walker stated that he did not hold any of the notes as they were sold to the Farmers Trust company. The money, he stated, was deposited in the various banks of this city and he was not certain but that some was placed in the Indiana National bank in Indianapolis.

Mr. Walker was represented in court by Will Henley of Indianapolis, while the receiver was represented by his attorneys, Donald Smith and John Kiplinger.

TO FORBID RAISE IN THE RATE LIMIT

Amendment Introduced in Senate Today Would Take Some Authority From Postmaster-General.

AS REGARDS PARCEL POST

(By United Press.)

Washington, Feb. 27.—The Senate this afternoon decided by a vote of 33 to 24 that the amendment taking from the postmaster-general the power to change the rates, weight and rules in the parcel post system was not in order and could not be considered at this time in connection with the postoffice appropriation bill. An amendment forbidding the postmaster-general to increase the weight limit above fifty pounds was introduced by Senator Bulkhead.

SEIZES BOYS AS ARMY RECRUITS

General Huerta Today Takes 200 Youths From 12 to 14 Years of Age From Market Place.

TORN FROM THEIR MOTHERS

They Are "Herded" Into Box Cars and Will be "Shipped" Like Cattle to the Army.

(By United Press.)

Mexico City, Feb. 27.—A detachment of General Huerta's soldiers today suddenly surrounded the market place here and drafted two hundred farmer boys who were attending provision carts with their mothers. The "recruits" were drafted amidst the cries from the boys and their mothers.

Most of them were not over twelve and fourteen years old. They were taken to places of confinement to be kept under guard until Huerta can herd them into box cars and send them out to the army. This was said to be typical of the ways Huerta recruits his army.

The scene was an appalling one to onlookers not used to Huerta's ways.

One thousand troops were rushed today to the defense of Mananillo on the west coast.

STOP UNEMPLOYED PARADE

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Precautionary measures were taken today to prevent another parade of the unemployed to the city hall. Police were stationed at all points to break up parades leading to the Mayor Harrison home or to the city hall. The unemployed ask work and not charity.

Trade Follows

Value

Value does not necessarily mean low prices. It may mean superior or unusual service, or high quality of merchandise.

It is on this law the growing demand for advertised articles is based.

By experience many people have come to know that an article put out under a definite name and backed up by advertising is, in a certain sense, a standard of value.

It stands for something definite and tangible.

It is to be preferred to an article of "unknown ancestry."

This very same law is what is prompting so many national advertisers to use the newspapers in preference to any other medium.

They give a better standard of value or, in other words produce quicker and more definite sales for a given cost than would be produced through other channels.

Trade follows value as surely as night follows day.

For evidence—watch the ever-growing volume of advertising in this newspaper.

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous For Rushville People To Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they so often get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health will be gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease may follow as the kidneys get worse. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, which are so strongly recommended right here in Rushville.

Mrs. Ella Endicott, 125 S. Harrison St., Rushville, Ind., says: "One of the family suffered from severe pains through his back and had trouble in straightening after stooping. His kidneys were also irregular in action. Finally, he used Doan's Kidney Pills and they removed the troubles."

Owen A. Charles of Muncie happened into the Chamber of Commerce meeting unexpectedly last night. He was scheduled to make an address at North Vernon and went through here south on the Big Four yesterday afternoon at 3:28. The train had a short wait in Greensburg. Mr. Charles asked the conductor if there would be time for him to walk a block away from the station. He was told he would have ample time. When he returned the train had gone. Mr. Charles came back on the evening train, spent the night here and returned home at noon today.

The offices on the second floor of the Peoples National Bank building are rapidly being filled. Sam Innis, attorney, has leased the north front suite and the W. M. Sparks law offices have already been moved from the Odd Fellows building to the south front suite. Just back of Mr. Sparks the suite is occupied by George and J. V. Young, attorneys. The next suite is vacant and in the next is A. L. Gary's law office. Mr. Gary moved from over the Callaghan company and Youngs from the Odd Fellows building.

Amusements

The Gem will show a three reel Victor feature "Rory of the Bogs" for tonight. J. Warren Kerrigan is featured. It is an Irish romance and tells a story of the 18th century and deals with the Fenian riots in Ireland. More than 300 people are used in the picture.

The Princess will show the sensational three reel picture "The Midst of the Jungle" for tonight. Kathryn Williams is featured. It is said to be a wonderful portrayal of beasts in a jungle, telling an interesting story of the wilds of Africa. The wild beasts are realistically shown and the picture is said to be a remarkable presentation.

The appearance of George Arliss and his company, under the management of The Liebler Company, in Louis N. Parker's famous comedy, "Disraeli," at English's Opera House, Indianapolis, during the week beginning Monday, March 2d, promises to be one of the most important and interesting engagements of the season.

Benjamin Disraeli, a personality who in his day shone with dazzling brilliancy, is the subject of Mr. Parker's play. Long one of the most remarkable figures of Europe, as a statesman his political achievements secured him the premiership, while his literary gifts won him a place among English men of letters, and his art secured for him entree to the most brilliant circles of the old world. Thus Disraeli was a character whose qualities might well appeal to the dramatist. Mr. Parker shows us the immortal "Dizzy," as both his friends and his enemies called him, at the zenith of his career. Woven into the action of the piece is the diplomatic battle for the control of the Suez Canal, which Disraeli conducted and won for England single-handed. No one could be made to realize the importance of preventing the control of the canal from falling into unfriendly hands; the Bank of England refused to aid him in his project, and only by going to the Jews for money, and by astutely forestalling all moves made by his opponents, did he complete a task the fruits of which were soon recognized. All this in the play serves merely as a background for a love-story encouraged and fostered by Disraeli with the same cunning with which he bent political tools to serve his purpose. In general Disraeli makes the young aristocrat prove himself a man.

The production of "Disraeli" is said to be elaborate scenically, particularly the brilliant last act, which represents the Reception Hall in Downing Street, just before the presentation to the Queen. The costumes of the period—the early seventies, lend the play attractive pictorial qualities.

Mr. Arliss' company includes Violet Heming, Florence Arliss, Margaret Dale, Leila Repton, Lilla Campbell, Oscar Adye, Henry Carvell, Charles Harbury, Arthur El-dred, St. Clair Bayfield and others.

There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The management of English's Opera House announces that reservations for seats may be made by mail or telephone.

SOCIETY NEWS

The Shakespeare club meeting which was to have been held last Monday night and was postponed will be held next Monday night. The club will be entertained by Miss Genevieve Brown at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wallace in North Perkins street. Miss Pearl Apple-gate will be the leader.

Announcements have been received here of the wedding of Miss Mary Isabel Brady, daughter of Dr. John Martin Brady, and James Joseph Schetgen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schetgen and formerly of this city, at Calgary, Alberta, Tuesday, February 17. Mr. and Mrs. Schetgen will be here on a visit some time during the year. A Calgary newspaper says of the wedding:

A very quite wedding took place at seven o'clock this morning in St. Mary's Cathedral, when Miss Mary Isabel Brady, formerly of Kingston, Ont., and James Joseph Schetgen of the C. P. R. telegraph staff, were united in marriage by Rev. Doctor MacDonald.

The ceremony was witnessed by many friends of the young couple who were attended by the bride's cousin, Miss Katherine Corrigan and Leo Schetgen, a brother of the bridegroom. The bride wore her traveling suit of navy blue serge and blouse and hat of black velvet, trimmed with blue. Miss Corrigan wore a suit of Copenhagen blue broadcloth with black hat.

After the ceremony the guests adjourned to the residence of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hickey, Twenty-fifth Avenue west, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Schetgen left on the morning train for Baniff and other points west and on their return will reside at suite No. 7, College apartments.

A Chance at First

It looks as if the Chamber of Commerce would have a chance to prove its worth at the very outset. One of the first conceptions of work for the chamber was that it should always have a "weather eye" out for home industry that needed support, especially moral.

Here is the National Gate company, almost wholly local capital and ready to expand and grow, but it is hampered by the fact that it can not find a suitable location. There would never be a finer opportunity for the Chamber of Commerce to accomplish something definite and worthy than in this instance.

The National Gate company offers a lesson that should be taken home by every person who is interested in Rushville. We have long been asserting that we wanted more industries, and it is quite true that we do, but when we can get them that are backed by home capital rather than those which represent foreign capital, we should take them hastily before some wide-awake city hereabout comes forward and lands the plumb.

The National Gate company has been seeking a site for some time. The company wants to grow, but has not yet had the opportunity. Instead of finding a ready and willing spirit in Rushville to co-operate and lend all the moral support possible, the company has found, it is reported, a spirit of petty bickering and smallness that is poor advance to make to a concern that some day may become a very big institution.

The Chamber of Commerce, if it is the success it should be, should give men in Rushville both in and out of business a new vision.

If the organization does that, it will have accomplished a lot. Some of us need to be able to see "in front of our noses," as the quaint expression so plainly expresses the sentiment.

We ought to be able to understand that the National Gate company although it is not now a Gary steel mill or National Cash Register plant, may some day be a concern of which Rushville, including those who are loathe ever to give compliment, can well be proud. If the Chamber of Commerce, by its organization and its methods, establish a sentiment favorable to home industry above all things, it will live and thrive and make Rushville a better place.

The older men of Rushville tell us of the younger generation how many men in their youth were turned away from Rushville because there was no ambition here to do anything and because of the lack of foresight. It is said of a certain man who once wanted to locate here and was not encouraged at all, and who has since become a very wealthy gentleman and a good asset to any town, stated in a speech a few years ago that he really liked Rushville best of any city he ever saw and that he attempted to locate here once. He broached the subject with Rushville citizens and they finally agreed to give him all the fresh air and sunshine he could use.

So it has been too often in Rushville. We want a new public spirit, and through the Chamber of Commerce we can best get it. Let's start in with the National Gate company, and if we can't do nothing else, at least say an encouraging word to its organizers. Let's show them that we are for them.

The company has been negotiating with several of the railroads in regard to a site, but it seems that about all plans have gone awry and that the negotiations will fail. It is up to us, the people of Rushville, acting through the Chamber of Commerce, to show this Rushville company that we want them to stay here.

Now let's give them the friendly slap on the back, a kindly smile and all the good will we can. The rest will come.

COMPUTING NEW TAX EXPLAINED

If You Are so Unfortunate as to be a Bachelor, it Costs You Above the $3,000 Mark.

IF MARRIED, $4,000 IS THE LIMIT

Income Tax Returns for Last Year Must be Made to Internal Revenue Collector by March 1

[Special to the Daily Republican.] Washington, Feb. 27.—If a farmer is so fortunate as to have a net income of over $3,000 a year in case he is a bachelor, or $4,000 if married, he is subject to the income tax, and under the law each individual must make return to the Internal Revenue collector of his district on or before the first day of March if he has a net income of $3,000 or over ($2,500 for the ten months of 1913). While the interest of most farmers in this subject is purely academic, the Department of Agriculture has received inquiries indicating that some wish to know just what is required of them under the new law.

The income tax law of October 3, 1913, places a tax of 1% upon all net incomes of over $3,000, with an additional tax on incomes of $20,000 or more. The first question arising in the minds of most people is what constitutes a net income. For a man receiving a regular salary, or a business man with a good system of book-keeping, it is easy to determine whether or not his income is taxable. But for the farmer who receives no stated income, and who often fails to keep an accurate account of receipts and expenditures, it is more difficult to calculate his net income.

In order that farmers may be posted on the income tax as it may concern them, the following information has been furnished by the Internal Revenue Bureau of the Treasury Department.

In general, an income consists of amounts derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service, paid in any form; also from professions, business, sales or dealings in property, or from rents, interest on bonds or mortgages, dividends on stocks, or other income from investments. These items constitute gross income, from which there should be deducted the expenses of carrying on the business; interest paid on indebtedness; worthless debts charged off; losses by fire, storm or shipwreck, not covered by insurance; exhaustion, wear and tear of property, and any income upon which the income tax has already been deducted at the source, as, for instance, dividends on the stock of a corporation which has already paid the tax on its earnings.

The provisions regarding net incomes of $3,000 apply only to unmarried persons, or to married persons not living with wife or husband. A husband and wife living together are entitled to an exemption of $4,000 on their aggregate income. This means that in case the wife has a separate income, if this added to the husband's income amounts to $4,000 the total is subject to the tax; or, if the wife has no separate income, the husband's income is taxable only in case it reaches $4,000. But a return must be made if the aggregate income of both is $2,500 for the year 1913. The joint exemption, however, would be $3,333.33.

In arriving at his net income the farmer should start with his gross income. This would consist of any items of the kind above enumerated, and especially all receipts from the sale of products of every description from the farm. This would include all money received for produce and animals sold, and for the wool and hides of animals slaughtered, if the wool and hides are sold; but he may deduct from these items the amounts actually paid as purchase money for the animals sold or slaughtered during the year. When the animals raised by the owner are sold or slaughtered, however, their value should not be deducted.

From the gross income there should be deducted amounts of money actually paid as expenses for operating the farm and producing the farm products, live stock, etc. This would include hired farm labor, farm supplies purchased that are necessary to carry on the business and not an investment that represents principal, etc. Expenses for repairs on farm property may be deducted, provided the amount deducted does not exceed the amount spent for such repairs during the year for which the return is made. The cost of replacing tools or machinery may also be deducted to the extent that the cost of the new articles does not exceed the value of the old. No deduction may be made for the cost of additional farm machinery, but credit may be allowed for the annual depreciation in the value of such machinery. For example, if a machine cost $100 and is regarded as good for ten years of service, the annual depreciation would be 10%, and a deduction of $10 dollars each year could be made on this account, as part of the expense of operating the farm.

The expense of supporting the family, however, can not be deducted from the gross income. Among items for which credit is not allowed are expense for medical attendance, life insurance, insurance on dwelling, store accounts, family supplies, wages of domestic servants, and cost of board, room or house rent for family or personal use. In case an individual owns his residence he cannot deduct the estimated value of his rent. But a tenant operating a rented farm as proprietor may deduct the rent of the farm as a part of the expense of his business.

Farmers are not required to include in their income the produce taken from the farm and consumed by the family. Only produce sold off the farm is to be included. A farmer is not entitled to a deduction for his own labor, or for expense of feeding live stock. He may, however, deduct such items as cost of fertilizer and other supplies and materials which are used up in the course of his operations.

The law provides that the year 1913 the tax shall be computed only on the net income for the ten months from March 1st to December 31st, and that returns shall be made on the basis of five-sixths of the year. Therefore, if the net income for the last ten months of 1913 amounts to $2,500 or more a return on form 1040 is required. For the ten months of 1913 every single person is allowed $2,500 exemption and in the case of husband and wife, living together $3,333.33 exemption. In computing the net income for this period deductions should be made for only five-sixths of the amounts properly allowable for the whole year. Returns for 1913 must be made by March 1st, 1914.

Blanks for making returns for the income tax may be obtained from the collectors of internal revenue throughout the country, or from the Bureau of Internal Revenue of the Treasury Department at Washington D. C. In case of failure on the part of any one who is subject to the tax to file the return by the first of March, the law fixes a penalty of 50% of the amount of the tax assessed and $10, to $1,000 fine. In case of false or fraudulent return there is a penalty of 100% and $20 to $2,000 fine and one year's imprisonment or both.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue is preparing regulations which may be obtained by interested persons on application to collector of Internal Revenue for the applicant's district.

CHAPTER XI.

Melodrama In the Snow.

Melodrama In the Snow. R. MAX finished, and again from below came the sound of voices raised in anger.

"An interesting story, Mr. Max," commented Professor Bolton. "I shall treasure it."

"Told with a remarkable feeling for detail," added Mr. Magee. "In fact, it seems to me that only one of the two participants in it could remember all the fine points so well. Mr. Max, you don't exactly look like Mark Denman to me, therefore—if you will pardon the liberty!"

"I get you," replied Max sadly. "The same old story. Suspicion—suspicion everywhere. It does a lot of harm, believe me. I wouldn't!"

He jumped from his chair and disappeared, for the voice of Cargan had hailed him from below. Mr. Magee and the professor with one accord followed. Hiding in the friendly shadows of the landing once again, they heard the loud tones of the mayor's booming voice and the softer tones of Bland's.

"How about this?" bellowed the mayor. "Hayden's squealed. Phones to Bland—not to me. Whines about the courts—I don't know what rot. He's squealed. He didn't phone the combination."

"The rat!" screamed Mr. Max.

"By the Lord Harry," said the mayor, "I'll have it open, anyhow! I've earned what's in there fair and I've earned it. I'm going to have it, Max."

"See here, Cargan"—put in Mr. Bland.

"Keep out of the way, you," cried Cargan. "And put away that popgun before you get hurt. I'm going to have what's mine by justice. That safe comes open tonight. Max, get your satchel."

Mr. Magee and the professor turned and ascended to the second floor. In front of No. 7 they paused and looked into each other's eyes. Professor Bolton shrugged his shoulders.

"I'm going to bed," he said, "and I advise you to do the same."

"Yes," replied Mr. Magee, but had no idea what he had said.

He entered No. 7 and paused in amazement. Outside one of his windows Miss Norton stood, rapping on the glass for him to open. When he stood facing her at last, the window no longer between, he saw that her face was very pale and that her chin trembled as it had in the station.

"What is it?" cried Magee.

"I must come in," she answered.

"Listen! You said you wanted to help me. You can do so now. I'll explain everything later. That is all I need tell you just at present. Downstairs in the safe there's a package containing $200,000—do you hear, $200,000. I must have that package. Don't ask me why. I came here to get it. I must have it. The combination was to have been phoned to Cargan at 8 o'clock. I was hiding outside the window. Something went wrong—they didn't phone it. He's going to open the safe by force. I heard him say so. I couldn't wait to hear more. I saw him."

"Who?" asked Mr. Magee.

"I don't know—a tall black figure—hiding outside a window like myself. The man with one of the other keys, I suppose. The man Mr. Bland heard walking about tonight. I saw him, and I was terribly frightened."

"You trust me?" asked the girl, with a little catch in her voice. "Without knowing who I am or why I must have the money—you'll get it for me?"

"Some people," said Mr. Magee. "meet all their long lives at pink teas and never know one another, while others just smile at each other across a station waiting room—that's enough."

"I'm so glad," whispered the girl.

"I never dreamed I'd meet any one like you—up here. Please, oh, please be very careful. Neither Cargan nor Max is armed. Bland is. I should never forgive myself if you were hurt. But you won't be, will you?"

"I may catch cold," laughed Mr. Magee; "otherwise I'll be perfectly safe."

He went into the room and put on a gay plaid cap. "Makes me look like Sherlock Holmes," he smiled at the girl framed in the window. When he turned to his door to lock it, he discovered that the key was gone and that it had been locked on the outside. "Oh, very well," he said flippantly. He buttoned his coat to the chin, blew out the candles in No. 7 and joined the girl on the balcony.

"Go to your room," he said gently.

"Your worries are over. I'll bring you the golden fleece inside an hour."

"Be careful," she whispered. "Be very careful, Mr.—Billy."

The justly celebrated moon that in summer months shed so much glamor on the romances of Baldpate inn was nowhere in evidence as Mr. Magee crept along the ground close to the veranda. The snow sifted down upon him out of the blackness above. Three feet ahead the world seemed to end.

"A corking night," he muttered humorously. "For my debut in the hold-up business." He swung up over the rail on to the veranda and walked softly along it until he came to a window opening into the office. Cautiously he peered in. The vast, lonely room was lighted by a single candle. At the foot of the broad stair he could discern a great bulk seated on the lowest step, which he correctly took to be the mayor of Reuton. Back of the desk, on which stood the candle, Mr. Max's head and shoulders were visible. He was working industriously in the immediate vicinity of the safe door. Occasionally he consulted the small traveling bag that stood on the desk. Many other professions had claimed Mr. Max before his advent into Reuton politics. Mr. Bland was nowhere in sight.

"Keep out of the way, you," cried Cargan.

No word was spoken in the office. Minutes passed. The bulk at the foot of the stairs surged restlessly.

Suddenly Mr. Max ran out into the center of the office. Almost on the instant there was a white puff of smoke and a roar. The inn seemed about to roll down the mountain after all those years of sticking tight. The mayor looked apprehensively up the stair behind him. Mr. Max ran to the open safe door and came back before the desk with a package in his hand.

After examining it hastily, Mr. Cargan placed the loot in his pocket. The greedy eyes of Max followed it for a second; then he ran over and gathered up his tools. Now they were ready to depart. The mayor lifted the candle from the desk. Its light fell on a big chair by the fire, and Mr. Magee saw in that chair the figure of Mr. Bland, bound and gagged.

Mr. Cargan and his companion paused and appeared to address triumphant and jesting comment in Mr. Bland's direction. Then they buttoned their coats and, holding aloft the candle, disappeared through the dining room door.

Now Magee knew the moment had come to act. Max he could quickly dispose of; he felt; Cargan would require time and attention.

He hurried round to the front door of the inn and, taking the big key from his pocket, unlocked it as a means of retreat where the men he was about to attack could not follow.

He heard Cargan and Max on the veranda just above his head. They were speaking of trains to Reuton. In great good humor, evidently, they started down the steps. Mr. Magee crouched, resolved that he would spring the moment they reached the ground. They were on the last step—now!

Suddenly from the other side of the steps a black figure rose, a fist shot out and Mr. Max went spinning like a whirling dervish down the snowy path to land in a heap five feet away. The next instant the mayor of Reuton and the black figure were locked in terrific combat.

For fifteen seconds, muttering, slipping, grappling, the two figures waited grotesquely about in the falling snow. Then the mayor's feet slid from under him on the treacherous white carpet, and the two went down together. As Mr. Magee swooped down upon them he saw the hand of the stranger find the mayor's pocket and draw from it the package that had been placed there in the office a few moments before.

Before that gentleman realized what had happened Magee had wrenched the package from his hand, thrown him back on the prostrate form of the highest official of Reuton and fled up the steps. Quickly the stranger regained his feet and started in pursuit, but he arrived at the great front door of Baldpate inn just in time to hear the lock click inside.

Safe for a moment behind a locked door, Mr. Magee paused to get his breath. The glory of battle filled his soul. It was not until long afterward that he realized the battle had been a mere scuffle in the dark.

With no thought for Mr. Bland, bound in his uneasy chair, Mr. Magee hurried up the broad staircase of Baldpate. Now came the most gorgeous scene of all—a fair haired lady; a knight she had sent forth to battle; the knight returned. "You asked me to bring you this, my lady. Business of surprise and joy on the lady's part.

business also perhaps of adoration for the knight.

At the right of the stairs lay 17 and the lady, at the left a supposedly uninhabited land. As Mr. Magee reached the second floor, blithely picturing the scene in which he was to play so satisfactory a part, he paused, for halfway down the corridor to the left an open door threw a faint light into the hall, and in that light stood a woman he had never seen before. In this order came Mr. Magee's impressions of her—far coated, tall, dark, handsome, with the haughty manner of one engaging a chauffeur.

"I beg your pardon," she said, "but are you by any chance Mr. Magee?" The knight leaned weakly against the wall and tried to think.

"I—I am," he managed to say.

"I'm so glad I've found you," replied the girl. It seemed to the dazed Magee that her dark eyes were not overly happy. "I cannot ask you in, I'm afraid. I do not know the custom on such an occasion. Does anybody? I am alone with my maid. Hal Bentley, when I wrote to him for a key to this place, told me of your being here and said that I was to put myself under your protection."

"Delighted, I'm sure," he murmured. "I shall not try to impose on you," she went on. "The whole affair is so unusual as to be almost absurd. I have come here to get something—and I haven't the least idea how to proceed. I came because I must have it—so much depends on it."

Prophetically Mr. Magee clutched in his pocket the package for which he had done battle.

"I may be too late." The girl's eyes grew wide. "That would be terribly unfortunate. I do not wish you to be injured serving me"—She lowered her voice. "But if there is any way in which you can help me—in this difficulty—I can never be grateful enough. Downstairs in the safe there is, I believe, a package containing a large sum of money."

Mr. Magee's hand closed convulsively in his pocket.

"If there is any way possible," said the girl, "I must obtain that package. I give you my word I have as much right to it as any one who will appear at the inn. The honor and happiness of one who is very dear to me are involved."

With the eyes of a man in a dream Mr. Magee looked into the face of the latest comer to Baldpate.

"Hal Bentley is an old friend and a bully chap," he said. "It will be a great pleasure to serve a friend of his." He paused, congratulating himself that these were words, idle words. "When did you arrive, may I ask?"

"I believe you were having dinner when I came," she answered. "Mr. Bentley gave me a key to the kitchen door, and we found a back stairway. There seemed to be a company below—I wanted to see only you."

"I repeat," said Mr. Magee, "I shall be happy to help you if I can." His word to another lady, he reflected, was binding. "I suggest that there is no harm in waiting until morning."

"But—I am afraid it was tonight"—she began.

"I understand," Magee replied. "The plans went wrong. You may safely let your worries rest until tomorrow."

"You are very kind," she said. "I hardly expected to be here the night through. It is rather cold, but I am sure we have rugs and coats enough."

Mr. Magee's duty was clear.

"I'll build you a fire," he announced.

The girl seemed distressed at the thought.

"No, I couldn't let you," she said. "I am sure it isn't necessary. I will say good night now. I am Myra Thornhill of Reuton. Until tomorrow." She went in and closed the door.

Mr. Magee sat limply down on the cold stair. All the glory was gone from the scene he had pictured a moment ago. He had the money, yes, the money procured in valiant battle, but at the moment he bore the prize to his lady another appeared from the dark to claim it. What should he do?

Mr. Magee unlocked the door of No. 7 and entered. Lighting his candles and prodding the fire, he composed a note to the waiting girl in 17:

"Everything all right. Sleep peace—"

Magee Wrenched the Package From His Hand.

fully. "I am on the job. Will see you tomorrow. Mr.—Billy." Slipping this message under her door, the ex-knight hurried away to avoid an interview and sat down in his chair before the fire.

"I must think," he muttered, "I must get this thing straight."

For an hour he pondered, thrashing out as best he could this mysterious game in which he played a leading part unequipped with a book of rules.

"Tomorrow is another day," he reflected. "I'll solve this whole thing then. They can't go on playing without me. I've got the ball."

He took the package from his pocket. Its seals had already been broken. Untying the strings, he began carefully to unwrap the paper, the thick yellow banking manila and then the oiled inner wrapping. So finally he opened the solid mass of—what? He looked closer. Crisp, beautiful $1,000 bills. Whew! He had never seen a bill of this size before. And here were 200 of them.

He wrapped the package up once more and prepared for bed. Just as he was about to retire he remembered Mr. Bland, bound and gagged below. He went into the hall with the idea of releasing the unlucky haberdasher, but from the office rose the voices of the mayor, Max and Bland himself. Peace evidently had been declared between them. Mr. Magee returned to No. 7, locked all the windows, placed the much sought package beneath his pillow and after a half hour of puzzling and tossing fell asleep.

Value of Rheuma From the Court

Judge Barhorst Was Relieved of Rheumatism After Doctors Failed.

If you have tried many other remedies and doctors' treatments for Rheumatism and found they failed, do not be skeptical about trying RHEUMA. Read the testimony of Judge John Barhorst of Fort Laramie, O.:

"After treatment by three doctors without result, I have been cured of a very bad case of Rheumatism by using two bottles of RHEUMA. It is now two years since I used the remedy, and I am still as well as ever. Previously, I was a cripple, walking with crutches."

Such testimony should be convincing. 50 cents of F. B. Johnson & Co.

We Promise You Relief from All Stomach Troubles Or Your Money Back

We honestly believe we have the best remedy in the world for indigestion and dyspepsia. We urge you to try it at our risk. If it doesn't relieve you—as we feel sure it will—we'll give back your money without a word. You know us—your family druggist. You know we wouldn't dare recommend anything we didn't know about, nor dare to break a promise. Therefore, when we recommend any remedy it is because we believe it to be better than any other to relieve the ailment for which it is made, and when we prove our faith in it and our sincerity toward you by promising to give back your money if it doesn't relieve you and in every way satisfy you, you have no possible excuse for doubt or hesitation.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

are, we honestly believe, the best remedy made for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all other Stomach Ills

We Know They're Good

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, in addition to other ingredients, contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two great digestive aids used by the entire medical profession. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check the heartburn and distress, stimulate a healthy secretion of the gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich red blood, and thereby into flesh, bone and muscle. They relieve stomach distress promptly, and, used regularly for a short time, tend to restore the stomach to a comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They aid greatly to promote regular bowel action.

Delays Are Dangerous

Don't neglect indigestion, for it frequently leads to all sorts of ills and complications. The pain and discomfort is not the most unfortunate part. The fact that when the stomach is not acting right, the material needed to repair the wastes that are constantly taking place in the body is not being given to the blood either in the proper condition or fast enough is far more serious. Nothing will cause more trouble than an unhealthy stomach. The blues, debility, lack of strength and energy, constipation, biliousness, headaches and scores of other serious ailments result from the failure of the stomach to properly do its work.

You Risk No Money

Our willingness to have you use Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets entirely at our risk proves our faith in them. We always sell them this way, and it is because we know that they have greatly benefited scores of sufferers to whom we have sold them. There's no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. You needn't sign anything. Your word is enough for us. We know that when they help you you will consider it money well spent even if they had cost you ten times as much. If they don't help you, the money you paid for them is ours, and we want you to have it.

Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores—the World's Greatest Drug Stores. In convenient boxes—three sizes: 25c, 50c, $1.00

STATE CONTEST IS ON TONIGHT

Indiana College Students Swarm In to Indianapolis For Annual Oratorical—Much Rivalry.

DEPAUW STRONG CONTENDER

Miss Alma Madden is Only Woman in Contest Being Representative of Earlham College.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 27.—With the representatives of seven of the secondary colleges swarming into town today for the intercollegiate oratorical contest, Indianapolis assumed its usual air of tolerance for the enthusiasm of youth, and smiled at the banners and college yells. This is an annual affair here and the city is rather used to it. It views with the Indiana-Purdue game in spirit and in the numbers of college men and women it brings to town.

Wabash and Earlham Colleges had the biggest representation this afternoon, due to the basket ball game between their teams, which was to be played at the Y. M. C. A. About the association building were gathered all the rooters of those two schools and many old grades who turned out to help their teams along. The dope probably favored Wabash. For the Little Giants already had defeated the Quakers 17 to 10 in a game a week ago. The Earlhamites, however, believed their men had overcome a good deal of the stage fright that cropped them in the other game, and would not concede victory to Wabash.

DePauw University, because of its many victories in Oratory, was considered the strongest bidder for tonight's honors.

Earlham was considered strong, for those two schools have been the bitterest rivals in the state in oratory.

Earlham will again be represented by a girl, Miss Alma Madden. Miss Janet Fenimore, who once won state honors in oratory, was an Earlham student.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN

Who Are "Just Ready to Drop."

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, you need help.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicines I ever took."

If the careworn, run-down women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderful, strength creator and body-builder, and we sell it under a guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. F. B. Johnson & Co. Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

If this Hen Could Talk

She would tell you how to get more eggs in winter.

But she can't. So you have to take the advice of successful poultrymen. They all agree that the only way to get eggs in winter is by feeding a meat ration along with grain feed.

And they agree that the meat ration should be high in protein, low in fat and fibre and clean and sweet.

Darling's Meat Crisps

meets these requirements in every particular. It contains 50 per cent more protein than common meat scraps.

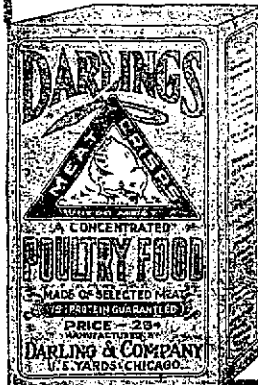

Get a twenty-five cent package of Darling's Meat Crisps today, mix a little with your regular feed according to directions on package, and the hens that are not laying will soon begin, while those that are laying will lay more regularly. Remember that Darling's Meat Crisps is a concentrated food and requires less to make a balanced ration.

If your grocer or feed dealer can't supply you, write us direct.

WILL NOT TURN OVER CORPSE

(By United Press.) Washington, Feb. 27.—General Villa consented today to allow an American surgeon to accompany Mrs. W. S. Benton to Chihuahua to view the body of her husband. A message from the United States consul stated that Villa still refused to turn the body over to the American government and will not permit an autopsy. The body has been buried twelve days and the officers doubt whether an inspection will disclose much.

This act of Villa's materially cleared the air today. Secretary Bryan was more hopeful when he attended the cabinet meeting.

ASKS $20,950 IN 2 LAW SUITS

Jefferson C. Davis, Farmer of Near Clarksburg, Asks Accounting From Partner, J. T. Meek.

LOCAL ATTORNEYS BRING SUIT

In Second Action he Charges Slander and Demands $10,000 in Damages—Former Sheriff.

Jefferson C. Davis, a well known farmer of near Clarksburg, filed two suits yesterday in the Decatur circuit court through his attorneys, Watson, Tittsworth & Green of this city and Tremain and Turner of Greensburg, against John Tom Meek, a capitalist of Greensburg, demanding a total of $20,950. The men were formerly partners in business.

The first suit is for an accounting. In this one he demands $10,950. The complaint avers that on May 5, 1906 the two men formed a partnership to buy and sell land and live stock. It was agreed, according to the complaint, that Davis was to do the buying and Meek was to furnish the money. He states that he bought much stock but does not believe he received his share of the profits.

The other is for slander and the demand is $10,000. The plaintiff alleges that Meek made a slanderous remark about him in March 1913. Both parties in the suits are well known. Mr. Davis was sheriff of Decatur county at one time.

The complaint sets forth that Mr. Meek in the presence of William E. Dorsey said to wit, meaning the plaintiff, forged his name to those checks and receipts on the "Crodgy notes," meaning that the plaintiff had forged the defendant's name to certain checks and receipts theretofore giving for the payments on certain notes held by one Crodgy, a resident of Franklin county, this state and meaning then and there to impute the plaintiff had unlawfully and feloniously forged his (Meek's) name.
